SECTION 1 — HERO

Messaging Hierarchy: Q1 (What do you do?) + Q2 (Why should I care?) Five-second test zone.

Headline

The Roof, Paint, and Siding Work Your Home Has Been Waiting For — Done by a Crew That Actually Picks Up the Phone

Subhead

Licensed Oregon contractors serving Salem, Woodburn, Portland, Dallas, Albany, and Turner since 2020. Same-day callbacks. Owner on every job. Bilingual in Spanish and English.

Click trigger under CTA

No obligation. Same-day response.

SECTION 2 — TRUST STRIP

Messaging Hierarchy: Q3 (Am I alone in caring? Others like me trust this?) Thin horizontal band directly under hero. Not a full section.

Licensed OCCB ( #219019) • Fully Insured • Serving Willamette Valley Since 2020 • Hablamos Español

SECTION 3 — SERVICES

Messaging Hierarchy: Q4 (Show me HOW you do what you say) Seven service cards. Each one grounded in the customer trigger from the context file — not generic feature lists.

Section headline

Everything Your Home Needs — Handled by One Crew

Section subhead

One call. One licensed contractor. Seven services most Willamette Valley homeowners eventually need.

Service 1 — Roofing

Headline: When the Ceiling Starts Showing What the Roof Has Been Hiding

Body: If your roof has been patched one too many times, or if the last storm finally pushed water through the ceiling, the repair window is already closing. We handle full replacements and targeted repairs — and for homeowners getting ready to list, we work with the timeline your realtor needs.

CTA: Get a Free Roof Estimate

Service 2 — Exterior and Interior Painting

Headline: When the House Hasn't Been Painted in Ten Years and the Neighbors' Homes Have

Body: Peeling trim, faded siding, a front door that looks tired from the street. If your home has been waiting a decade for fresh paint, we handle full exterior and interior painting on real homeowner timelines — before you list, before the next winter, or just because it's time.

CTA: Get a Free Painting Estimate

Service 3 — Siding

Headline: Before the Damage Behind the Siding Costs More Than the Siding

Body: Cracked, warped, or missing siding lets Oregon weather do slow damage behind the wall. We replace damaged sections and full exteriors, and we catch the moisture issues most crews miss until it's too late.

CTA: Get a Free Siding Estimate

Service 4 — Concrete

Headline: Driveways, Walkways, and Patios That Don't Embarrass the Rest of the House

Body: Cracked driveways, sunken walkways, patios that have outlived their concrete. We handle new pours, replacements, and repairs — including the work your listing agent flagged before the photos go up.

CTA: Get a Free Concrete Estimate

Service 5 — Gutter Cleaning and Maintenance

Headline: Before the Water Overflowing Your Gutters Becomes a Foundation Problem

Body: If water is spilling over the edges every time it rains, your fascia, siding, and foundation are already paying for it. We clean, repair, and maintain gutters across the Willamette Valley — usually in a single visit.

CTA: Schedule Gutter Service

Service 6 — Roof Moss Removal and Cleaning

Headline: The Moss Is Shortening the Life of a Roof You Paid a Lot For

Body: Years of Oregon rain turn roofs into moss gardens. That moss holds moisture against your shingles and takes years off the roof. We remove it safely — no pressure washing, no damage — and treat the roof to slow it coming back.

CTA: Get a Free Moss Removal Estimate

Service 7 — Cleanups and Junk Removal

Headline: One Crew, One Truck, One Day — Instead of a Dumpster and a Weekend

Body: Post-project debris, years of accumulation, or a move that left more than you can haul yourself. We take it all out in one visit so you don't have to rent a truck, pay dump fees, or make three trips.

CTA: Schedule a Cleanup

SECTION 4 — WHY US / POSITIONING

Messaging Hierarchy: Q5 (How will my life improve?) + direct fear resolution This is the load-bearing section. It names the hiring fear from the context file and resolves it point by point.

Section headline

Most Homeowners Aren't Afraid of the Project. They're Afraid of Hiring the Wrong Crew.

Section subhead

Here's what you're actually getting when you hire Amazing Quevedo Construction.

The owner is on every job. Mayra runs the crew and runs the jobs. Your project doesn't get subcontracted out to strangers you never meet. The person who gave you the estimate is the person making sure it gets done right.

Every call gets a same-day response. When you call, you hear back that day — not three days later when you've already moved on to the next contractor. The fastest way to lose a homeowner's trust is to go silent after the estimate. We don't.

We speak Spanish and English. A real portion of Willamette Valley homeowners would rather talk through a major home project in Spanish, where the details matter and nothing gets lost. That's how we operate — not as a marketing angle, as the way the business actually runs.

We're licensed and insured. OCCB  #219019. You can verify the license on the Oregon Construction Contractors Board website before we ever set foot on your property. Fully insured, so if something goes wrong on your property, you're not liable for it.

We're not the cheapest. We're the fair price done right. Middle-of-market pricing by design. We're not trying to win the job by cutting corners, and we're not pretending to be premium. You're paying for work that lasts, from a crew that answers the phone.

SECTION 5 — COMPLETED WORK GALLERY

Messaging Hierarchy: Q6 (Why is it safe for me to believe you?) Wiebe's "Prove It" sweep in visual form.

Section headline

Real Homes. Real Projects. Real Willamette Valley Homeowners.

Section subhead

Every project below was completed by Mayra and the Amazing Quevedo crew — no subcontractors, no stock photos.

[PLACEHOLDER: Gallery grid — 6-12 completed project photos] Note for build: Ideal format is before/after pairs where possible. Caption each one with service type + city (e.g., "Full roof replacement — Salem, 2024"). If the client only has "after" photos, that still works — label them clearly. Do not use stock photos here. If fewer than 6 photos are available at launch, use a 3-column grid of whatever exists and plan to expand.

SECTION 6 — TESTIMONIALS

Messaging Hierarchy: Q6 continued (social proof) Placeholders only. Real reviews replace these before launch.

Section headline

What Willamette Valley Homeowners Say After the Job Is Done

[PLACEHOLDER — Testimonial 1] Instructions for real testimonial to request from past client: Ask for a 2-3 sentence review that mentions (a) what service was done, (b) one specific thing they were worried about beforehand, and (c) how the crew handled it. Get the reviewer's first name, last initial, city, and ideally the year. Example of what to ask for: "Mayra, could you text a couple of past clients and ask them: What was your biggest concern before we started, and how did we handle it?" That question produces the most useful testimonial language. — [First Name Last Initial], [City], [Year]

[PLACEHOLDER — Testimonial 2] Same instructions. Aim for a different service than Testimonial 1 so the reviews show range. Ideal target: roofing, painting, or siding since those are the biggest-ticket services. — [First Name Last Initial], [City], [Year]

[PLACEHOLDER — Testimonial 3] Same instructions. If possible, include one Spanish-speaking client testimonial — can be displayed in Spanish with an English translation beneath, or in English with a note that the client preferred Spanish throughout the project. This reinforces the bilingual operation as real, not marketed. — [First Name Last Initial], [City], [Year]

SECTION 7 — ABOUT THE OWNER

Messaging Hierarchy: Q6 continued (trust via story — who am I actually hiring?)

Section headline

Meet Mayra

Body

Mayra Maria Arteaga started Amazing Quevedo Construction in 2020 with one principle: if her name is on the company, she's on the job. Five years and hundreds of Willamette Valley homes later, that's still how it runs. She personally answers the calls, walks the estimates, and makes sure every project gets finished the way it was promised — in Spanish or English, for the homeowners staying put and the ones getting ready to sell.

Licensed OCCB  #219019. Fully insured. Based in Salem, serving the Willamette Valley.

[PLACEHOLDER: Photo of Mayra on a jobsite if available]

SECTION 8 — SERVICE AREA + CONTACT

SECTION 9 — STICKY FOOTER / PERSISTENT CTA

Messaging Hierarchy: Q7 reinforced

Mobile

Persistent bar at bottom of screen with two buttons:

- Call Now: (971) 701-8136
- Get Free Estimate (scrolls to contact form)

Desktop

Phone number and "Get a Free Estimate" button fixed in top navigation bar, visible on every scroll.

LOVABLE HANDOFF NOTES

Copy is final pending these three items from the client:

1. Completed work photos — minimum 6 for gallery section, before/after pairs preferred
2. Real testimonials — 3 minimum, following the instructions in Section 6 placeholders
3. Photo of Mayra — jobsite photo preferred over a headshot for the About section

Brand aesthetic is blank in the context file.

Your `<brand_aesthetic>` tags were intentionally left blank. Before handing this to Lovable, decide:

- Color direction: What two or three colors anchor the site? (Construction sites often default to navy/orange or black/yellow — neither is required. For a contractor whose positioning is "trustworthy, accessible, bilingual, middle-of-market," muted blues with warm accents read more approachable than industrial.)
- Visual feel: Clean and modern? Rugged and workmanlike? Warm and residential? Each sends a different signal to the homeowner about what hiring this crew feels like.

- Typography: Serif headlines signal established/traditional. Sans-serif signals modern/approachable. For this audience (middle-aged and older homeowners), clarity matters more than style — avoid thin or decorative fonts.
- First impression: When the hero section loads, what does the visitor see first? Suggested: a full-width photo of completed exterior work (a freshly painted home, a new roof, a finished walkway) with the headline overlaid. Construction sites often default to stock photos of hard hats — don't. Use actual Quevedo work.

One structural note for the build:

The sticky CTA (Section 9) is non-negotiable for a local service site. Homeowners scroll, get distracted, need to call from anywhere on the page. Lovable can handle this with a fixed-position component — flag it explicitly in the Lovable prompt so it doesn't get dropped.

Seven Sweeps self-check (Wiebe's QA system, applied to this draft):

- Clarity: Headline passes five-second test (roof/paint/siding + contractor who picks up phone). ✓
- Voice/Tone: Direct, plain, no corporate polish. Matches customer profile (middle-aged and older homeowners who distrust marketer-speak). ✓
- So What: Every service card answers "why should I care" via a specific trigger, not a feature list. ✓
- Prove It: OCCB license number displayed in 3 places, years in business, owner-on-every-job claim. Gallery + testimonials pending real content. Currently 70% proven — will be 100% once photos and reviews are in.
- Specificity: Cities named, license number named, "since 2020" named, trigger scenarios named. No "innovative solutions" or "premium quality." ✓
- Heightened Emotion: Positioning section directly names the hiring fear ("afraid of hiring the wrong crew") before resolving it. Service cards open with the homeowner's actual situation, not the service name. ✓
- Zero Risk: Primary risk is performance + value (hiring wrong crew, wasting money). Neutralized via: free estimate, same-day callback promise, verifiable license, owner on job, insured. No pressure CTAs, no fake urgency. ✓
